FISH MARKET PARK

GOING TO RUIN

The park about the fish market on Alakoa street, according to a communication sent by F. J. Lowrey to F. B.

McStocker and by him referred to the Board of Supervisors and to the Governor, is fast going to ruin. The trees and grass, planted at considerable expense, are dead and the grading is going to destruction. Mr. Lowrey thinks that it would be folly to open up new places if it means the abandonment of this one.

Mr. McStocker endorsed the letter of Mr. Lowrey, expressing the hope that the matter would be attended to immediately.

The Board of Supervisors, however, disclaims any responsibility in the matter, stating that the "park" in question comes under the charge of the Superintendent of Public Works and that the Board has nothing to do with it.

"If the Superintendent of Public Works," said one of the Supervisors, "wants to let the place go to rack and ruin, it isn't any of our business."

BUSINESS SECTION OF CITY IN DANGER

Fire May At Any Time Destroy Downtown District

The business section of Honolulu is in danger of being wiped out by fire almost any time. A fire in any of the buildings along Fort street might easily get beyond control and develop into a conflagration that would destroy all the central part of the city.

Such were the statements made before the Board of Supervisors last night when the Board had under consideration the matter of reducing expenses and the running expenses of the fire department were being discussed.

"There are not over half a dozen first class buildings in town," said Fire Chief Thurston. Most of the buildings that pass for brick and stone are only shells, wooden frameworks veneered over with a coating of brick or stone.

The reason we have had so few fires is because we have such a good fire department. But the city is spreading out and we are not spreading with it. It is three times as hard to protect the city now as it was ten years ago.

"Take those big wooden buildings down in Chinatown. If ever a fire gets away from us there, it is going to be a big one. The most danger, however, is right here in the center of the city, where all the business is done and where the buildings are right up against each other. A fire out in the residence sections could be controlled easily enough, and the chances are that it would burn only the house in which it started. But a big fire down here would be a more difficult thing to deal with.

There are some section of the city that have no fire protection whatever. In reply to a question of Chairman Smith, Thurston stated that Waikiki and Kaimuki are entirely without fire protection. A fire started out there, he said, would destroy the building before the fire department could get out there.

"What would you do if there were no money in the county?" demanded Supervisor Archer, determined to reduce expenses in some way.

"Do without," replied Thurston.

"There is no question," said Chairman Smith, "that if there were no money in the county, the business men would combine to keep up the department, as it is now."

The possibility of a reduction of the running expenses of the fire department, and consequently of the efficiency of the department, brought a committee from the Board of Underwriters up before the Supervisors to object to any such action.

A. R. Gurrey stated that the Underwriters wished to object strongly to any action toward reducing salaries in the fire department. Such action, he said, would tend to weaken the department and impair its efficiency. It would mean that the department would have to get poorer men. It would be a step backward.

"We need a good fire department," he said. "The fact that we have few fires is because we have a good fire department. If a conflagration should ever break out in these buildings along Fort street, we would be mighty glad to have a good department."

"If the efficiency of our fire department were impaired, would you raise insurance rates on us?" asked Supervisor Lucas.

"I should not care to say as to that," replied Mr. Gurrey, "as I am only the secretary. But you can see that an increase in the risk would tend to raise insurance rates. You have a good department here, as good as any on the Coast outside of San Francisco, and I should be sorry to see it weakened."

Mr. Berg endorsed what Mr. Gurrey said. He did not believe, he said, that the men were paid any too much.

Joe Gilman also spoke in opposition to any reduction of salaries. It would mean, he said, impairing the efficiency of the fire department. Good able-bodied men were needed for the work to be done, and it would be hard to get them at lower salaries than those now paid.

Chairman Smith thanked the committee for its expression of opinion, stating that their objections would receive careful consideration when the matter should come up before the Board for action.

SEQUEL TO HOLY ROLLER TRAGEDY

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Maud Creffield, held in the King county jail as an accomplice in the murder of George Mitchell in the Union station July 12th, died suddenly in her cell, at 11:15 o'clock last night (Friday).

Although it was suspected at first that the woman committed suicide, a search of the jail by Sheriff Smith, and deputies failed to discover any evidence that she had poison in the compartment she occupied.

Esther Mitchell, who shot her brother, was in the same bed with Mrs. Creffield when the latter was stricken. en. Esther Mitchell shed no tears when she realized that the woman who had been her accomplice in the murder of her brother was dead. For half an hour she clung to the lifeless form and kissed the cold lips, but was not consumed with grief and answered in clear voice all questions asked of her. Deputy Coroner S. F. Wilkie believes the woman died from heart failure.

Maud Hurt Creffield was the wife of "Joshua" Creffield, who was shot by George Mitchell, who believed that Creffield had maltreated his sister Esther. Esther later shot her brother George. She and Mrs. Creffield were arrested for the crime, both women confessing that they had done it to avenge the death of "Joshua."

CHARGES POLITIC IS BEING PLAYED

Judge Whitney objects to an attempt being made to change the officers of his court without himself being consulted in the matter. Mr. Douthitt, he says, is trying to displace the present interpreter, Chang Chau, by Jos. Goo Kim, and has said nothing to the Judge about it. Wherefore, the Judge objects. The following letter from Judge Whitney was received last night by the Board of Supervisors, and referred to the Police Committee:

Honolulu, Nov. 24, 1906.

Hon. Geo. W. Smith, Honolulu, Oahu.

Dear Sir:—I understand that there is on foot an undertaking to remove my present interpreter and substitute Mr. Jos. Goo Kim. I have not at any time been consulted in the least in the matter, although certainly 99 per cent. of the time of the interpreter is used in this court. The first thing I knew of the change was when showed by Mr. Chang Chau the letter written by Mr. Douthitt informing Mr. Chang Chau of his removal from office. There has never been any complaint made by myself to anyone of the interpretations of my present interpreter, and I have none to make. I am convinced that his removal is due entirely to politics, as Mr. Douthitt, the complaining party, is practically through with his services. It seems to me that a great injustice is being done a faithful servant by the action. Mr. Goo Kim, who is the proposed successor of Chang Chau, is now and has been for some time the clerk of Mr. Cathcart, and one would certainly be led to believe that this is reason for the change.

Very truly yours,
WM. L. WHITNEY,
Magistrate.
